

SHARE YOUR STORY

CHOOSE a quiet, well-lit place outdoors, preferably one that matters to you.

FOCUS on yourself while talking, with the camera at arm's length or up to five feet away.

RECORD who you are, where you are and anything else we should know about you. Then spend a minute just telling us a story. It could be a "big fish" tale or a "thank-you" to your favorite park. Most importantly, we want to hear what matters to you locally—even if you've never seen the Chesapeake Bay.

SHARE your story on social media and tag it with #ChesapeakeStories. If you'd rather share directly with us, send an email to wparson@chesapeakebay.net for instructions.

FOLLOW the Chesapeake Bay Program on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram—our handle is @chesbayprogram. We'll be sharing some of your responses and presenting favorites at the 2017 Chesapeake Watershed Forum.

#CHESAPEAKE STORIES

Where do you go to be in nature, have fun, make a living or find your voice?

What environmental issues

do you face in your community?

What's your water story

from your corner of the 64,000-square-mile watershed?

We want you to share stories on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram or directly with us!

The Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, in partnership with the Chesapeake Bay Program, is asking you to record your stories and share the result for a community initiative called Chesapeake Collective.

Use hashtag #ChesapeakeStories so we can hear you!
