

Chesapeake Student Recruitment, Early Advisement, and Mentoring (C-StREAM)

A summer fellowship program to recruit, advise, and mentor college students underrepresented in environmental protection and management careers

Fellowship Opportunities Summer 2024

Chesapeake Bay Program

- Invasive Species Best Management Practices
- Developing a Graph Database and Knowledge Graph Visualization Application (U.S. Geological Survey)

NOAA Chesapeake Bay Office

- Environmental Literacy Workgroup
- Fish Ecology Position

United States Naval Academy

- Research Assistant - Marine Soundscapes in the Severn River

Old Dominion University

- Impacts of Sea Level Rise and Climate Change on Chesapeake Shallow Aquifer

Penn State University

- Research Assistant - Assessing Benthic Macroinvertebrate Restoration

Virginia Institute of Marine Science

- Environmental Justice Science Communication

chesapeake.org/c-stream/

rowelr@chesapeake.org

Will Parson/Chesapeake Bay Program

C-StREAM Benefits

- ✓ Professional development trainings (time management, effective communication and presentation skills, and developing compelling resumes and cover letters)
- ✓ Network with environmental management and science professionals
- ✓ Explore environmental careers

Fellowship Details

- 12 weeks (May 20–August 9)
- 40 hours per week
- Compensation: $6,000 ($500/week)
- 8 fellowships available with different partners
- Applications due January 28, 2024

Who Qualifies?

College students who identify as one or both of the following:

- A person of color
- A first generation college student

Learn More

 chesapeake.org/c-stream/

 Randy Rowel, Program Director
rowelr@chesapeake.org

